The Caduceus 1960

Foreword

As the avid reader of yearbook forewords knows, it is customary to draw a comparison between the difficulties attendant upon the production of a yearbook and the miseries and discomforts of gestation, labor and childbirth.

To continue in the tradition, then, let us say that we started with severe Rubella in the first trimester, followed by a partial separation of the placenta with loss of one twin in the process, and finally wound up in dystocia. You will kindly, then, not point out hair lips and club feet to us!

It has also been customary to give due credit to the attending midwives, of which we had an astronomical number—a special committee of them being appointed when pitocin didn't work. We are grateful to Miss Ziehli, Dr. Bowling, Dean Clark, D. Dusenberry, Dr. Fields, Dr. Lawrason and Dr. Jordin for their spectacular wielding of the high forceps.

JOHN CODY, Editor

GEORGE ROSENTHAL, Associate Editor, School of Medicine

CONNIE SADLER, Associate Editor, School of Nursing

EDWARD BREWER, Associate Editor, School of Pharmacy

LEON WILES, Business Manager

P.S.

Perhaps we should also explain that the "poems" sprinkled through the Med. School section were not written by us at all but are utter plagiarisms from Gilbert and Sullivan and satirize types prevalent in England in the late 1800's, so, of course, have absolutely no applicability to this Medical Center in Arkansas in 1960. We only threw them in to fill up some blank spaces and break the monotony of so many photographs.

"I remember being born. It was a lousy experience - traumatic as hell. I hated it. I mean it. I really did."

SIGMUND FREUD.

Dedications

We, the students of the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE, wish to dedicate our portion of the 1960 CADUCEUS to Dr. Hans G. Schlumberger, whose enthusiasm gave us an early glimpse of the larger world of Medicine and conveyed to us some of the excitement of the frontiers of research; who presented his subject, not in isolation, but with perspective and proportion as part of the broader sciences of Medicine and Biology; and who, by means of some closely guarded secret of his own, never found it necessary to be boring.

OCTOBER 19, 1959

We, the students of the SCHOOL OF NURSING, wish to dedicate our portion of the 1960 CADUCEUS to Dr. Jeanette F. Grosicki. We sincerely appreciate the time, effort and encouragement which she has constantly given to us. We also acknowledge her ability to act in the capacity as Dean of our school and sincerely hope that her efforts will be rewarded.

NOVEMBER 6, 1959

We, the students of the SCHOOL OF PHARMACY, wish to dedicate our portion of the 1960 CADUCEUS to Dr. James E. Dusenberry . . . for his understanding of the students' problems . . . for his devotion to teaching and research . . . for his sincere interest and support of all student endeavors . . . and for his valuable contributions to Pharmacy.

*A Med Student's Night's Dream

When you're lying awake with a dismal headache and repose is taboo'd by anxiety,
I conceive you may use any language you choose to indulge in, without impropriety,
For your brain is on fire — the bedclothes conspire of usual slumber to plunder you;
First your counterpane goes and uncovers your toes, and your sheet slips demurely from under you;
Then the blanketing tickles — you feel like mixed pickles — so terribly sharp is the pricking,
And you're hot and you're cross, and you tumble and toss till there's nothing 'twixt you and the ticking.
Then the bedclothes all creep to the ground in a heap, and you pick 'em all up in a tangle;
Next your pillow resigns and politely declines to remain at its usual angle!
Well, you get some repose in the form of a doze, with hot eyeballs and head ever aching,
But your slumbering teems with such horrible dreams that you'd very much better be waking;
For you dream you're attending a lecture unending — Sid Fields on psychodynamics,
Which would be really quite bad (writing notes in your pad) were the class not suspended in hammocks;

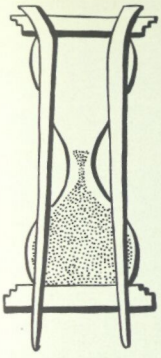

Suspended too, from a crane painted blue, by one foot Sid soars like an eagle,
Intoning the while (without scarcely a smile) that MD's be considered illegal.
Just then Dr. Brown, with a terrible frown, oozes in, wrapped in an old placenta —
On the class falls a hush as he swings a wet brush and paints Dr. Fields a horrid magenta.
Dr. Fields at this juncture, with ego apuncture, retreats to the top of a chimney —
And here lays an egg the size of a keg and sings an air from "Francesca Da Rimini."
While his offspring's emerging, his "bel canto" is surging and as of a high C he's about to unburden,
His composure is shaken, for with the eggshell a-breakin' out pops Willie King Jurden!
Now this Willie King's an impressive thing got up in a Riviera bikini
And how you gasp in wonder, as, with a peal of great thunder, he proceeds to announce he's a Genie.
"I do what I'm told," he announces bold, "and ole Sid Fields is my master."
"If that is true," says Fields from the flue, "then wreak on OB some disaster.
For when they offend us our wrath is tremendous — Willis knows I don't look good red-violet;
So cause him great pain — have him melt in the rain — send him up in a blimp with no pilot.
Make all his meals, cheese served with boiled black-eyed peas or some equally horrible bean dish.
And if you want to pass," he singles you from the class, "think of something peculiarly fiendish!"
Now you're in a fearsome spot for a fiend you are not (unless provoked unduly)
But with malice toward none spread cheer like the sun (except when professors become unruly)
Suddenly Willis reappears and like Lucifer sneers and threatens OB next summer:
"To take sides in this," he whines with a hiss, "you couldn't do anything dumber."
(Frankly, Willie King, the Aladdin, you long to engadden and let him wreak his vendetta;
But with each gruesome thought, you get more overwrought, somehow you doubt this will make your lot better.

For if with Willis you'd trifle, your joy he could stifle: he's been many a student's Nemesis.
With this thought you turn pale, a gasp you exhale, you feel on the verge of an emesis!)
After an "Ave Maria" full of nervous dyspnea, you address the avenging spirit:
"I've a horrible scheme, 'twould make a stoic scream, should your in-genie-ousness care to hear it.
It's a torment more languishing — a torture more anguishing — than found in all Dante's architectures!
It is this: (how you shudder! It's so utterly utter!) Make him rehear all his own lousy lectures!
With tape recorded splices and electronic devices reproduce them from morning till dark;
With all the 'in due seasons' and 'cardiogravid' wheezin's bombard him till he's mad, staring stark.
And make him listen, without one missin', until despair upon him settles,
Then, when he's pale and wan and just about gone, finish him off with one by Jack Nettles!"
You've gone over with a bango! Sid does a Fandango — dancing chin whiskers express joy's distillment,
And by gum and by goo! Dr. B. is happy too! For him it's a dream in fulfillment!
"Dear Boy, Fine Lad," he says, "You've made me so glad," he says, "I've never been in such fine fettle;
And I've no animosity, but out of sheer curiosity, why did you throw that one in by Jack Nettles?
Anyway, I wish to applaud you; I want to reward you — ole Genie says he'll lend me his powers.
I've a novel idea that you'll be delighted to hear — it will enliven your thoughtful hours.
It at first may seem strange but, hell, it's due season for change, now get this: HENCEFORTH YOU MEN
WILL DO ALL THE CHILDBEARING!"

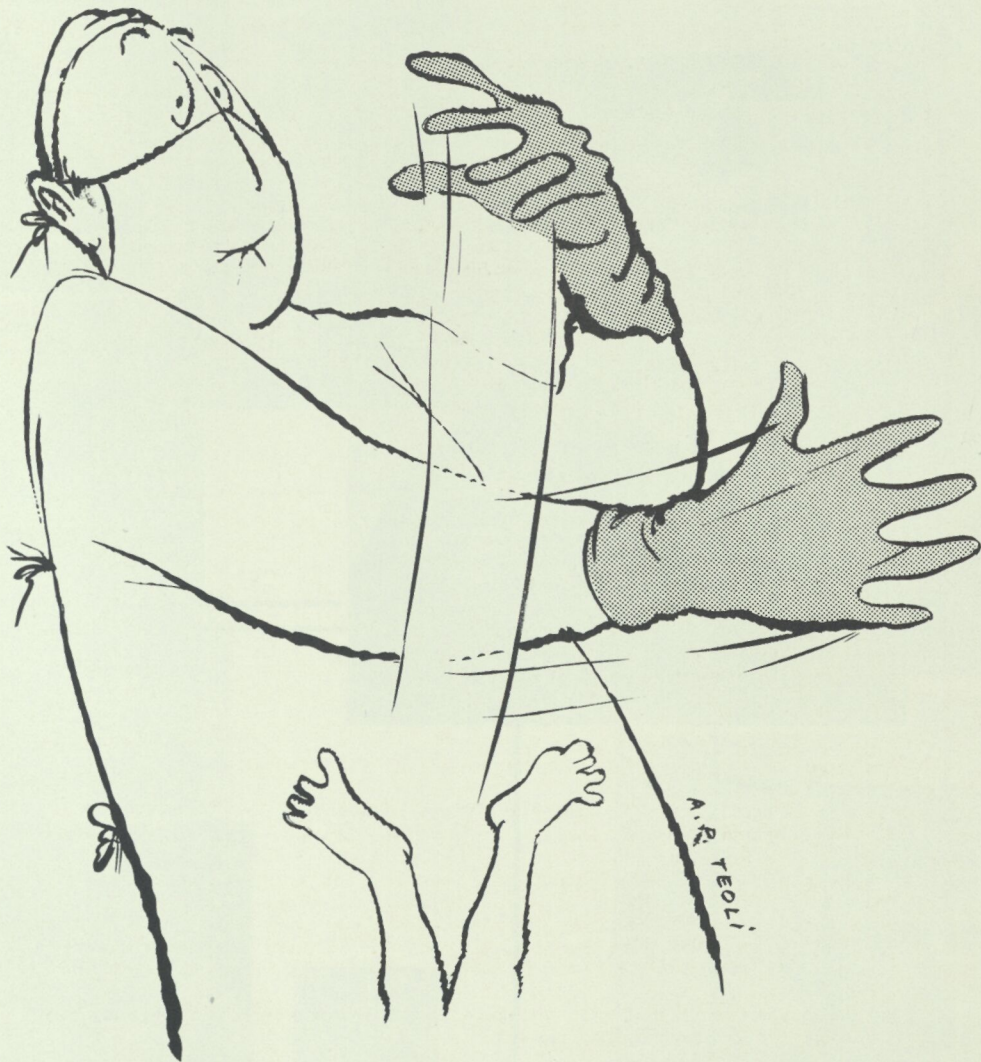

Oh! Feel that pain like a saber? You've gone into labor! And you awake with a shudder despairing —
You're a regular wreck, with a crick in your neck, and no wonder you snore, for your head's on the floor, and you've needles and pins from your soles to your shins, and your flesh is acreep, for your left leg's asleep, and you've cramps in your toes, and a fly on your nose, and some fluff in your lung, and a feverish tongue, and a thirst that's intense, and a general sense that you haven't been sleeping in clover;

But the darkness has passed, and it's daylight at last, four years is damn long, but they'll pass like this song and someday they'll be equally over!

Comes a train of little doctors
From scholastic trammels free
Each a little bit afraid is Wondering what the world can be!

"Is it but a world of trouble
Sadness set to song?
Is its beauty but a bubble
Bound to break ere long?

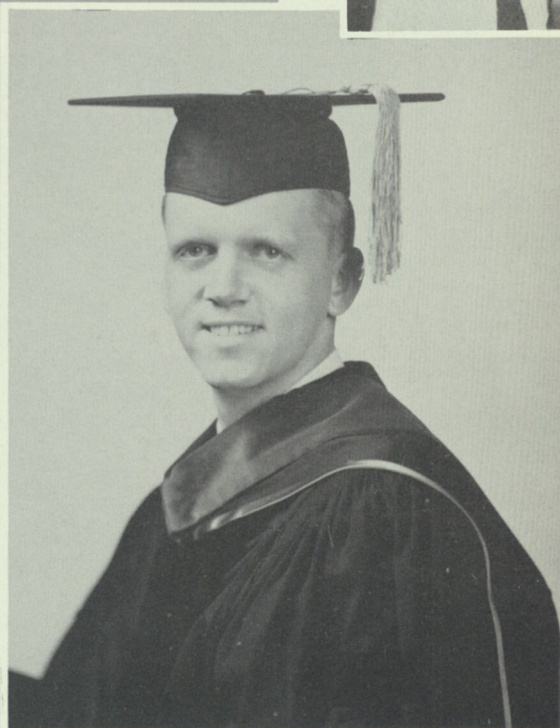

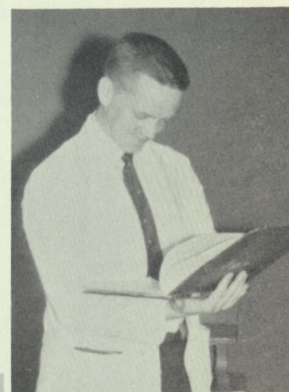

Is the glory of its jewelled women
Shadow of a shade?
And its Cadillacs and pools for swimmin'
Fantasies that fade?

Will socialized medicine dole us dull cases?
Will it be harder to collect our fees?
Will integration merge the races—
Produce a hybrid without disease?

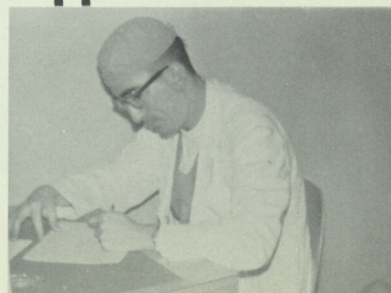

Must I lead a pace that's killin'
And, morn till morn, to do my duty, I
Mush shoot quarts and quarts of penicillin
Into miles and miles of gluei?

MD's we, who've knuckled under
From scholastic trammels free
And we wonder, how we wonder!
What on earth the world will be."

FACULTY GUESS-WHO NO. 1

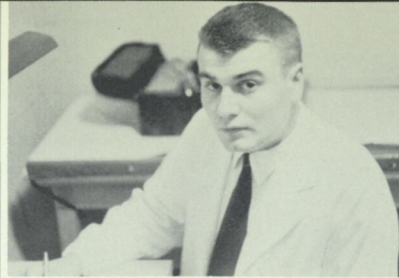

Tripping hither, tripping thither,
Nobody knows why or whither;
But to keep our grants, you see
We must emulate the bee.

We're the Vestals in Science's churches
Never discovering nor advancing;
We indulge in our Researches
In a manner most entrancing.
If you ask the special function
Of our neverceasing motion,
We reply, without compunction,
That we haven't any notion!

If you ask us how we live,
Foundations all essentials give—
We distill with gifts of glass,
Fire with donated gas,
Centrifuge with dowered turners
Boil with forked o'er Bunsen Burners
For tweezing trifles they give us tweezers,
To cool our Cokes they shell out freezers,
That explains our constant tizzy:
To keep the grant we must look busy!

BALLAD TO MEDICAL CENTER

(with polite request for a good recommendation)
 In bygone days I had thy love—
 Thou hadst my heart.
 But Fate, all human vows above,
 Our lives now part!
 By the old love thou hadst for me
 By the fond heart that beat for thee—
 By joys that never more can be,
 Grant thou my prayer!

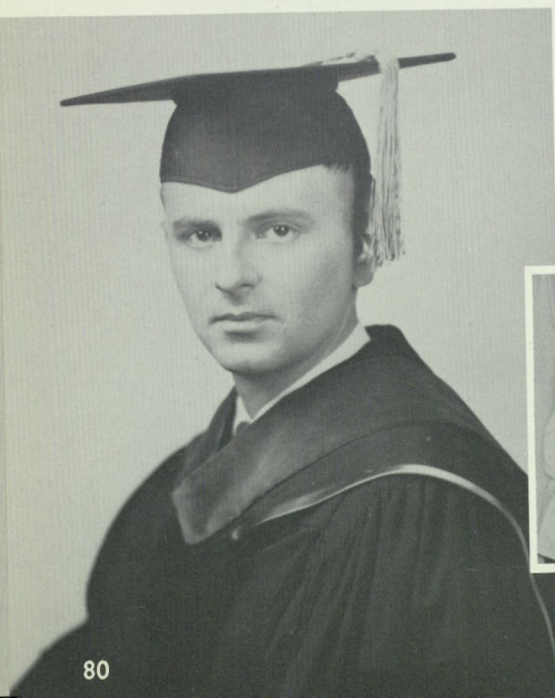

My heart that once in truth was thine,
 Another claims—
 An internship is calling me,
 And different aims.
 Our plighted heart-bond gently bless,
 The seal of thy consent impress
 Upon our promised happiness—
 Grant thou our prayer!

FACULTY GUESS-WHO NO. 2

Now I'll tell you all about the mind.
There is not much to it you will find.
Freud overestimated it.
(But then he didn't have my wit.)

In maxims terse I've boiled Freud's theories down.
In polished epigrams they're done up brown.
So if you'd be profound like me
Commit these gems to memory:

Feelings are Facts, boys—that's my 14 karat, crystalized pearl.
Isn't it a dandy? In a spot that's the curve ball I hurl.
When patients get frantic—this in sonorous voice I intone,
Then all at once: chin-up—they face the future with a new backbone!

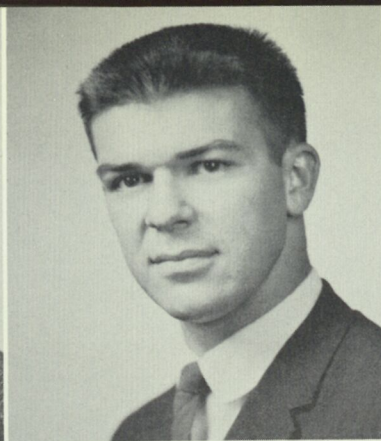

Feelings are Facts, boys, is not really my only choice mot.
Thoughts are Things, too. (Filched that from a yogi asquat.)
Emotions, Entities came in a soul-stirring, brain-spinning flare.
Picked in Psychiatry's unweeded garden, these are my blossoms debonaire!

Moods are Matter, just as Responses are Realities. Quite!
Ardors are Articles and Humors are Happenings. Right!
Sympathies are Sertainties, (as plain as the nose of Freud's face.)
But in my symphony of mottos, Feelings are Facts is my thoroughbass!

Sensations are Substances and Tempers are Tangible too.
Visions are Verities (till my time quite unknown hereunto)
Passions are Palpable (this one just burst from my teeming brain)
But Feelings are Facts is really my mainsail, the propeller on my aeroplane!

A Junior student is a soaring soul,
As free as a mountain bird,
His energetic fist should be ready to resist
A dictatorial word.

His nose should pant and his lip should curl,
His cheeks should flame and his brow should furl,
His bosom should heave and his heart should glow,
And his fist be ever ready for a knockdown blow.

His eyes should flash with an inborn fire,
His brow with scorn be wrung;
He never should bow down to a domineering frown,
Or the tang of a tyrant tongue.

For example:

From some salty intern or a resident MD
You get a list of orders that apall you.
You take your time and ignore that grandee
And in a fit of pique he calls you:

"Coward, poltroon, shaker, squeamer,
Blockhead, sluggard, dullard, dreamer,
Shirker, shuffler, crawler, creeper,
Sniffler, snuffler, wailer, weeper,
Maggot, weevil, tadpole, earthworm,
Slime-crawl, mud-grope, ooze-swim, sea-squirm!

You booby dense-
You oaf immense,
With no pretense
To common sense!
A stupid muff
Who's made of stuff
Not worth a puff
Of seborrhic slough!"

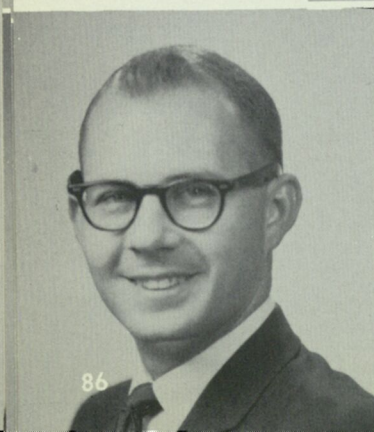

Yum Y. King
Eudora

O-o-o-o-oh THEN:

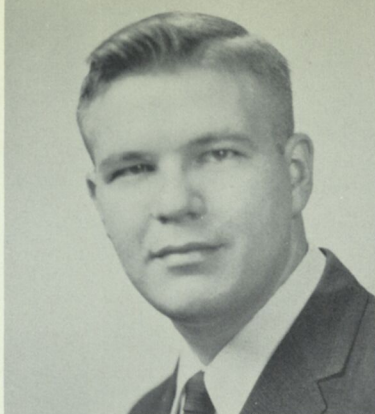

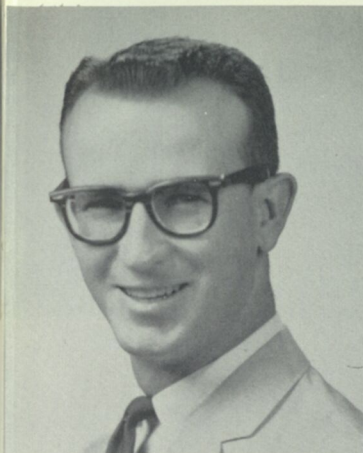

Your foot should stamp and your throat should growl,
Your hair should twirl and your face should scowl;
Your eyes should flash and your chest protrude,
And this should be your customary attitude!

FACULTY GUESS-WHO NO. 3

I was a Harvard MD as a very young man,
(Said I to myself, said I)

And I'd hit on a new and original plan,
(Said I to myself, said I)

I won't wake before noon as other men do,
And do something useful the whole day through,
For I am a genius and they are so few.
(Said I to myself, said I)

I will take up with Merritt and be a big wheel,
(Said I to myself, said I)

And diagnose patients I'm unable to heal,
(Said I to myself, said I)

I'll tweak their snout reflexes and tickle their feet,
And elicit Babinskis and laugh till I'm weak,
And air out their ventricles to take a good peek,
(Said I to myself, said I)

When I'm not feeling rushed I may do EEGs
(Said I to myself, said I)

And read them by Christmas of what year I please,
(Said I to myself, said I)

And be stern with old Sik and give him the birch,
Should he call me about a patient left in the lurch,
While I'm off attending to the higher Research.
(Said I to myself, said I)

Creating scientific theories with imagination sublime,
(Said I to myself, said I)

To dazzle the freshman I will work overtime,
(Said I to myself, said I)

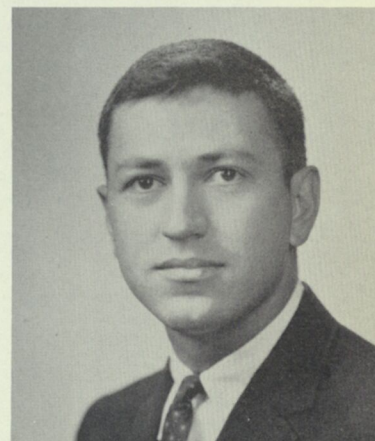

In my black Cadillac I need gather no moss,
But I'll come late for lectures just to show them who's boss,
Still, I'd like them to think I'm just old Santa Claus
(Said I to myself, said I)

I'll assign lots of reading for the Juniors to do,
(Said I to myself, said I)

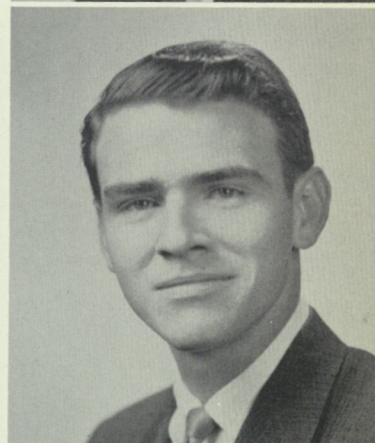

Avoid fundamentals that might give them a clue,
(Said I to myself, said I)

I'll let them read up on CVAs and thrombosis,
Then quiz on exotics and rare ailments, God knows is
The last thing they'll see in this City of Roses.
(Said I to myself, said I)

'Neath an azalea by the Med School a beat Junior lit
Singing, "Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic."
And I said to him, "Junior boy, why do you sit,
Singing, 'Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic'?"
"You seem somewhat exasperated, Forme Frustes!" I cried.
"Was Cecil's too long despite how you tried?"
With a wave of his li'l Merk Manual he replied:
"Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic"

He slapped at his chest as he sat neath that bough,
Singing, "Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic"
Pink hemoglobin droplets bespangled his brow.
"Oh Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic"

Then he sobbed and he sighed and a gurgle he gave!
Then went and told our Provost, "Dr. Ebert's a knave!"
Later, echoes arose from that suicide's grave:
"Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic"

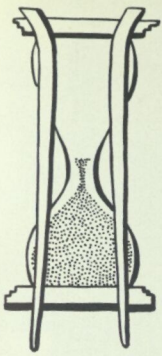

Oh I feel just as sure as I'm sure that my name
Isn't Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic
Surfeit of roundings sans studyings had softened his brain
Ah Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic.
And if intern's orders for Gastrics don't soon abate,
And Venous Pressures discontinue, then I'll share his fate,
Tho I might not exclaim as they show me the gate:
"Oh Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic, Stool-Guaiaic!"

I've jibe and joke
I've quip and crank
For lowly folk
And men of rank
I ply my craft
And know no fear
But aim my shaft
At prince or peer.

I've wisdom from the birds and from the beasts,
That's subject to no academic rule.
I may find it in the budding of the yeasts,
Or distill it from the tumor of a mule.
I can teach you with a quip if I've a mind;
I can trick you into learning with a laugh.
Oh winnow all my folly and you'll find
A grain or two of truth among the chaff.

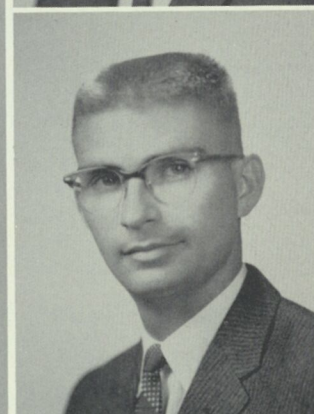

I can set a pedant quailing with a quip.
The upstart I can wither with a whim.
He may wear a merry laugh upon his lip,
But his laughter has an echo that is grim.
When they're offered to the Sophs in merry guise
Necrotic truths are swallowed with a will.
He who'd make his fellow creatures wise
Should always gild the pathologic pill
Yes, he who'd make his fellow creatures wise
Should always gild the pathologic pill.

Sophomores, you may take it from me,
That of all the afflictions accurst
With which a man's saddled
And hampered and addled
A diffident nature's the worst.
Though clever as clever can be—
As your Paylovs, your Houssays, your Gantts
You must stir it and stump it
And blow your own trumpet
Or, trust me, you haven't a chance.

Now take for example my case:
I've a bright intellectual brain
In this Arkansas city
There's no one so witty
I've thought so again and again.
Two departments my talents embrace
(And they're certainly not misallied)
But, whatever I try, sir,
I fail in — and why, sir?
I'm unaggressiveness personified.

In lecture all's eloquence I blow my breath on
In administration I've a genius for order
In dog lab I shine
Horse drugs are my line
And my lab book's a classic, sorta.
All muddles, jumbles and clutters I'm just death on.

(In that, none are methodical as I)
But to say so were treason
You ask me the reason?
I'm diffident, modest and shy!

Oh if you wish in this world to advance
Your merits you're bound to enhance
You must stir it and stump it
And blow your own trumpet
Or trust me, you haven't a chance!

I am!
Then let me own:
This air severe
Is but a mere veneer.
This cynic's smile
Is but a wile
Of guile.
This hauteur chaste
Is but good taste
Misplaced.
Let me confess:

A languid love of labors does not blight me.
Braxton-Hicks and Ascheim-Zondeks do not delight me.
I do not care for accouchement scenes by any means.
I do not long for all one sees above the knees.

Class: "With a cerebrum like few!"

Prof.: "You're very, very good,
And be it understood,
I respect your neurones too.

So the chemical embryo
Can follow all the quirks of my bright mind;
If I must reiterate a point,
My nose is never out of joint,
And I'm never, never disinclined."

Prof.: "No, never!"

Class: "What, never?"

Prof.: "Hardly ever!"

Class: "He's hardly ever disinclined.

Prof.: "You're exceedingly polite,
And I think it only right
To return the compliment.

With my perspicacity,
The questing curiosity,

I am the very model of a modern boy scout scientist.
I've information minuscule, middle-sized and giantest.
In Embryology I can quote events historical
Of Endoderm and Ectoderm in order categorical.

I lecture Great Books groups on Einstein's theories problematical
I understand equations both simple and quadratical
About binomial theorem I am teeming with a lot of news
With many cheerful facts about the square of the hypotenuse.

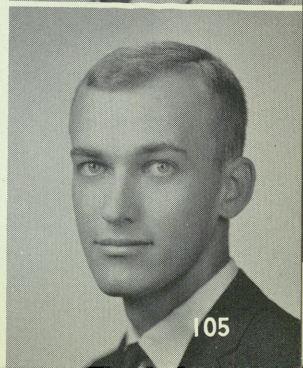

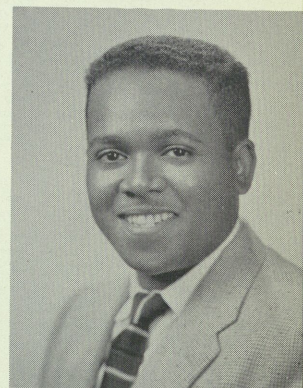

My political grasp's like Jefferson's and I've a legal mind like Madison's
I'm quite hot stuff on Endocrines and I know the cure for Addison's
In short, in matters of minuscule, middle-sized and giantest
I am the very model of a modern boy scout scientist.

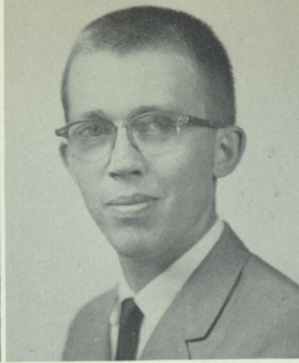

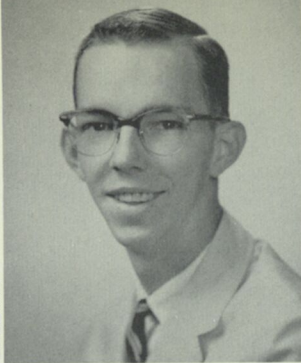

I know my herpetology and what to do for viper-bite
In Minerology, my chrysophrase from monoclinic spessartite
I answer hard acrostics, I've awesome skill at archery
(Tho' when it comes to dressing up I'm not too good at starchery)

My horsemanship is unexcelled, I'm unequivocally a master.
My first-aid knowledge is so good it made my leg heal faster.

Oh, fiddle, you caught me working.

Herr Otto, branded.

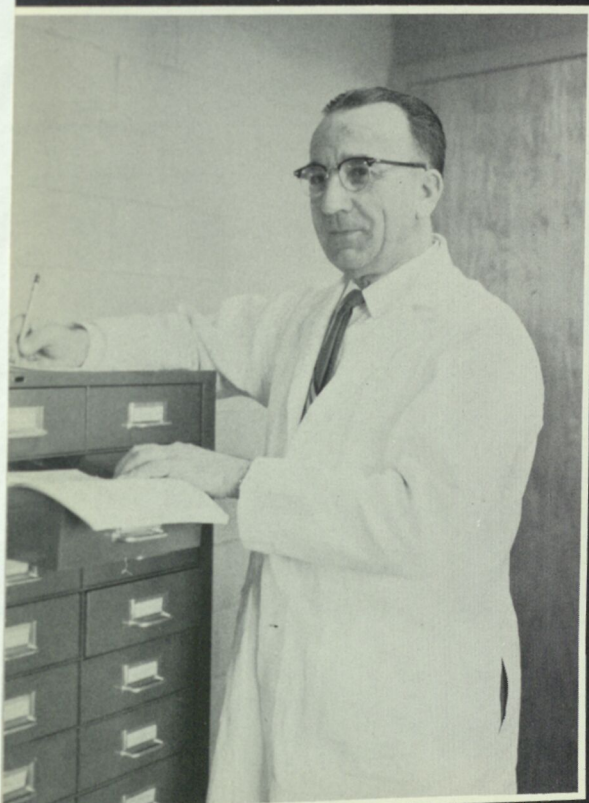

How many stencils?

The students in the school of pharmacy would like to take this opportunity to recognize those dedicated men who are willing to sacrifice material gain, and in some instances, fame, in order to promote the profession of pharmacy, primarily through that amazing process of education.

DANIEL WEBSTER said, "If we work marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds and instil in them just principles, we are then engraving upon them tablets which no time will efface, but will brighten to all eternity."

Perhaps, it is knowledge of this that keep them going when others about them are reaping riches and fame. Yes, we would like to shower them with gifts of world tours, cars, or even a spatula; however, the poverty of students is recognized everywhere and due to the fact that we are no exception, we can only use this means to express our esteem by the tongue-in-cheek write-ups given on the pages which follow.

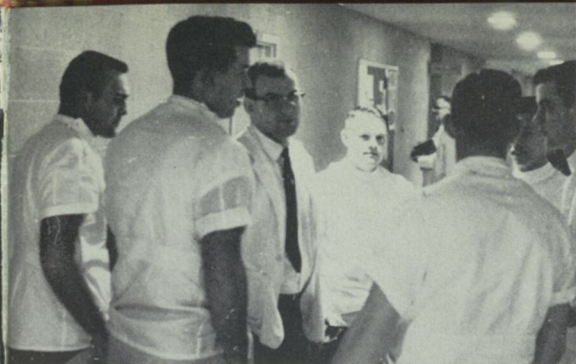

Stanley G. Mittlestaedt, Dean

Thomas J. Carruthers said, "A good teacher has been defined as one who makes himself progressively unnecessary." Wonder what his definition of a good Dean would have been? No matter what his definition might have been, Stanley G. Mittlestaedt could have adapted himself to fit it. Yes, ours is a dean among deans. He is held in high esteem by his faculty and students alike, because of his many attributes and virtues. He stands ready to help any of his students with any undertaking which he deems constructive. He is always willing to go that last mile with any student, associate or friend—such is his trust in humanity. True, he is always ready and willing to assist students; however, at times he is unable to comply with a request and then you will hear a compassionate, "Gee Whiz Fellows, I did all I could, but my hands were tied."

He is called "Mr. Pharmacy" by those who know of his seemingly tireless efforts to promote our school and the profession of Pharmacy, and "the pump" by those who have not taken the time or haven't had the opportunity to really know this great man.

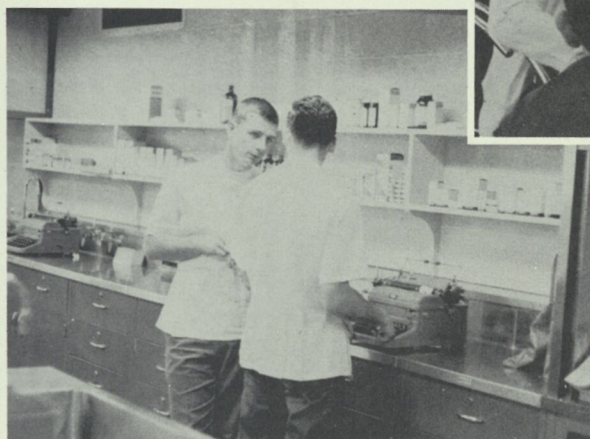

Dean Mittlestaedt, our hats are off to you, for you are an example of what this nation needs. A man with honor, a man who makes statements and stands behind them, a man who makes objective decisions without letting political pressures or personalities sway him. And last, but far from least, a man who can get anything wholesale.

Snow White?

Nothing "ever" happens around here.

If you want my advice -----.

Bill Greenwood, Ph. D.

Management is required in Pharmacy School in an attempt to make our graduates indispensable, in spite of the fact that history records only one indispensable man — Adam!

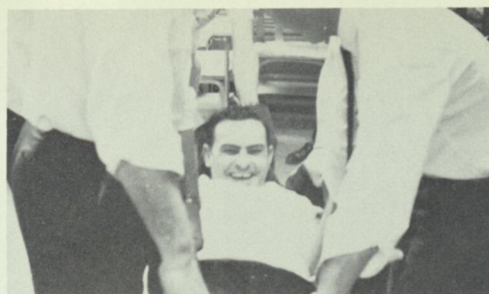

Due to this attempt, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday morning at 8:00 a.m., Bill Greenwood will enter the room where he instructs seniors in the various facets and ramifications of management.

The very first day he entered this classroom he began to see what an intricate task it is to teach our seniors anything. In TOTO, they had the audacity to suggest what was to be presented, as well as deleted, in this course.

There were nebulous misunderstandings at the beginning of the year; however, as the semester progressed, there was a meeting of minds and now everyone is pleased to have such an intelligent gentleman associated with us. Yes, intelligent, for he is a man smart enough to tell us how to run our future business, but too smart to start one of his own.

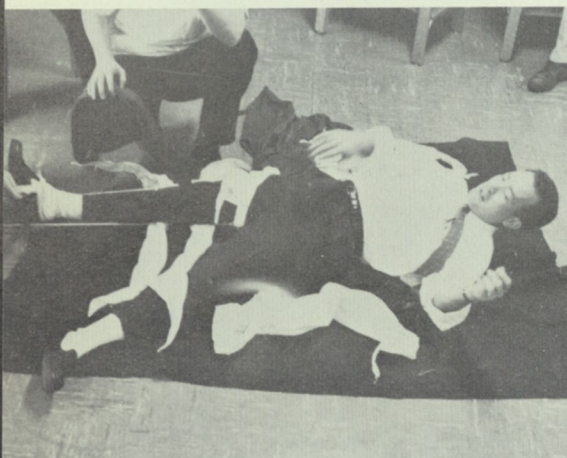

First you grasp thusly, ———

And "away" we go!

Who said this lift was practical?

Get this X/Z'x/?&' off me!!!

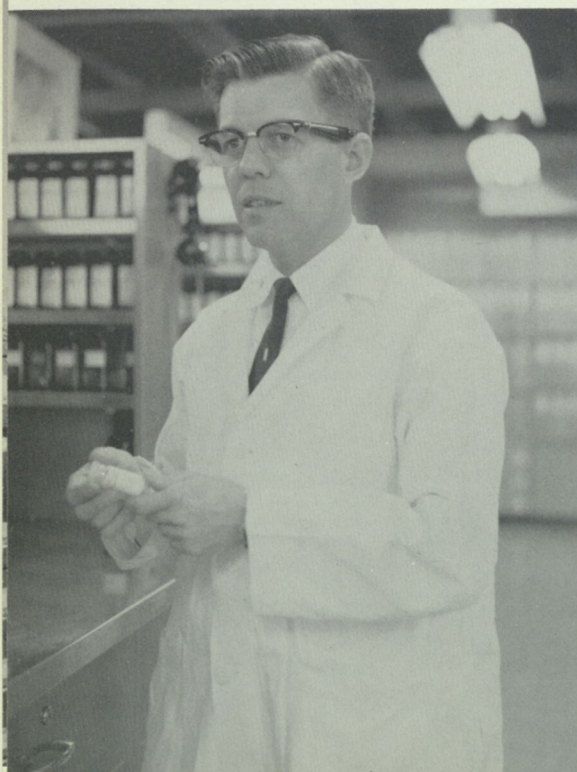

We regret to note the passing of —

These ponies don't pay as well as those at Hot Springs!

T. S. Grosicki, Ph. D.

At one time, Dr. T. S. Grosicki was the pride of the single students attending the U. of A. School of Pharmacy. He was a bachelor in those days and had all of the freedom and privileges due any bachelor. He was able to pursue an extracurricular education which endowed him with a great knowledge of the WEAKER sex. It was this knowledge that enabled him to make such statements as:

"To woman, beauty is what money is to man—POWER!"

"She has an hourglass figure and makes every minute count."

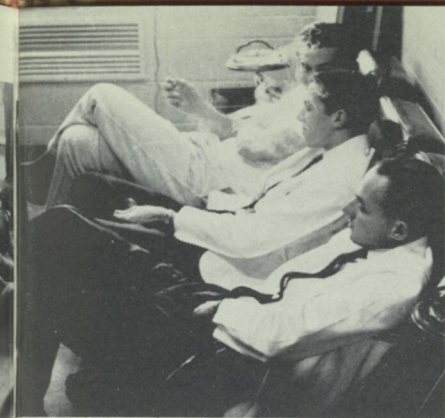

But alas, matrimony caught up with our hero last year and now he is heard making such statements as:

"Some women spend money like it was going out of style."

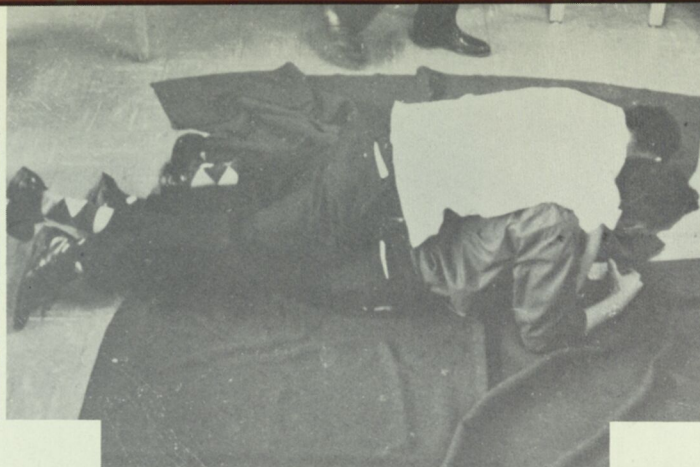

"Give a woman an inch and she thinks she is a ruler."

"The only way to fight a woman is with your hat—Grab it and run."

Yes, his way of life has changed, but the academic life of his students has not. They are still counting the number of times he clears his throat during his lecture on dispensing, hoping they will establish a new record. They also sit on the fourth row of his classroom, so his voice will not disturb their sleep.

Not so tense, fellas, relax!

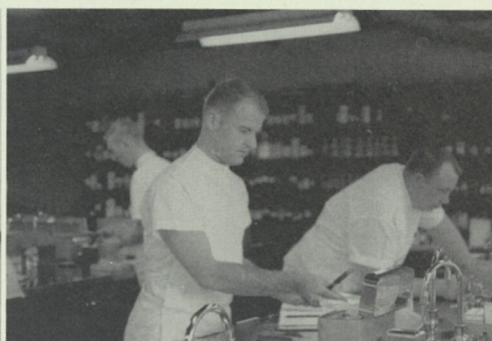

No comment!

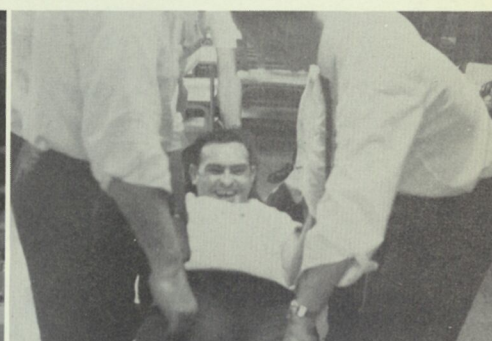

Look ma, no cavaties! !

Meeting of the minds.

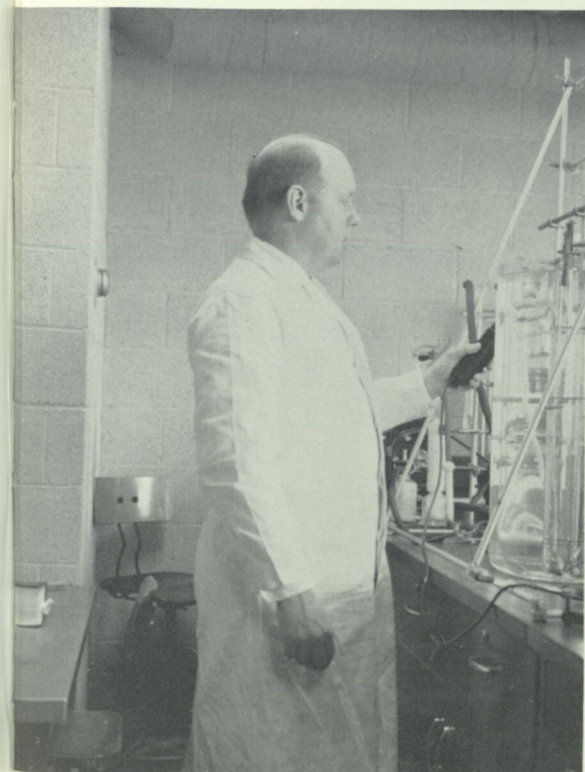

i scruple? ?

Get serious now, fellas.

W. A. Strickland, Jr., Ph. D.

"You must be able to convert from metric to avoirdupois to apothecary systems with unfailing speed and accuracy." This is pounded into our heads by "Sliderule Strickland," professor of Pharmaceutical Calculations and Physical Chemistry. Problems, problems, and more problems—such that are never seen nor will ever be seen in the practice of pharmacy. The semester ends at long last and he promises to take the final from the 4,925 practice problems at the end of the book. "How do we work these problems, sir?" "By-grannies, you ought to remember that from 3rd year calculus."

Mr. Winston C. Beard M.B.A.

Mr. Winston C. Beard has been instrumental in teaching the junior class so many shortcuts that many have to give up the profession of pharmacy in order to have time to make use of the shortcuts. Many a junior will remember his golden words resounding in their brains: "Debits toward the windows, credits toward the wall." Yes, he has convinced us all "it's what's up front that counts."

Five rails but I made it!

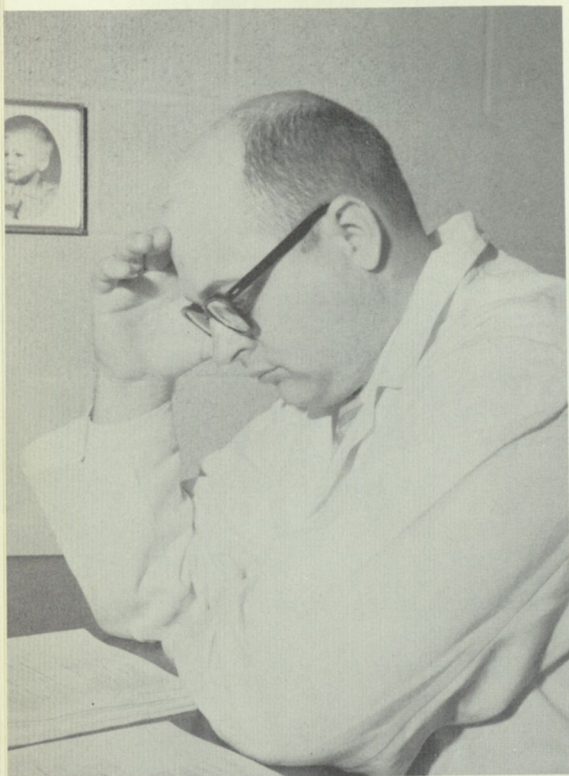

What do I do with this powder left over?

If you don't like the way I wash dishes — ! !

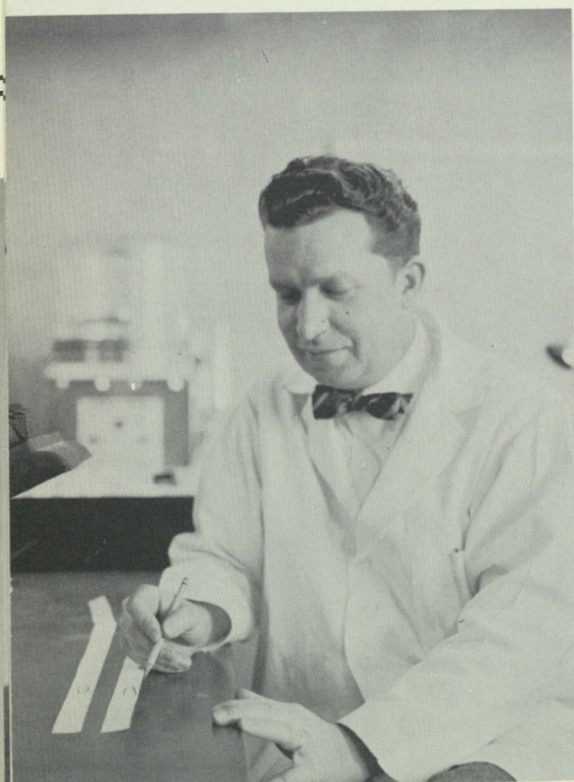

So what if everyone else is in class I still need to practice my game.

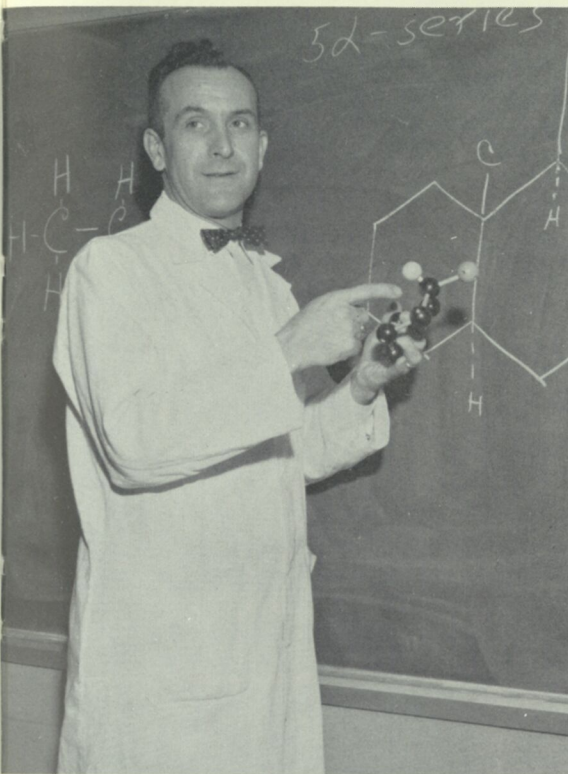

Dr. M. W. Jordin, Ph. D.

Everyone has heard the ghastly tales of Dr. Marcus Jordin, professor of physiology and pharmacology. Seniors have shown the gray hairs and bloodshot eyes and explained that they were there because of these two courses; juniors still shudder in the wake of pharmacology, and the freshman sits anxiously awaiting this terror. Enter "The Blob." Talk dies away, the houselights dim, and it speaks. "My name is Marcus Jordin, spelled J-O-R-D-I-N and pronounced Jur'din which you shall remember henceforth and hereafter. I received my education at Purdue University, am married, have two children, and am 32 years old, fat, bald and obnoxious. Take out a sheet of paper. You have thirty seconds to write the twelve cranial nerves and tell whether they are sympathetic or parasympathetic, sensory, motor, or mixed." There are a few rapid calculations, a quick check of wallets. "How much is a ticket home anyhow?"

Dr. J. E. Dusenberry, Ph. D.

Still in a daze from the ordeal of physiology, the class enters microbiology lecture like sleep walkers. Here they are confronted by a smiling man with a bow tie. It is Dr. Jim Dusenberry, professor of microbiology and phamacognosy. "Today," he begins in the friendly voice of a grafting politician, "we shall study a micro-organism found frequently in the literature: Artyfeehinostomum sufrartyfex. As you probably already know, this parasite is the normal inhabitant of the North African tsetse fly, found only during its hibernating period of October in the mountains of east equatorial Africa. This organism But I don't want to bore you with details."

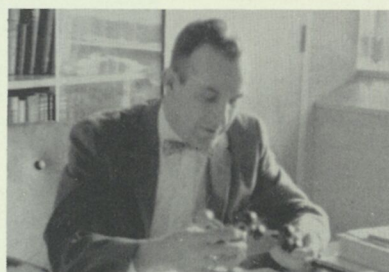

Dr. R. O. Bachmann, Ph. D.

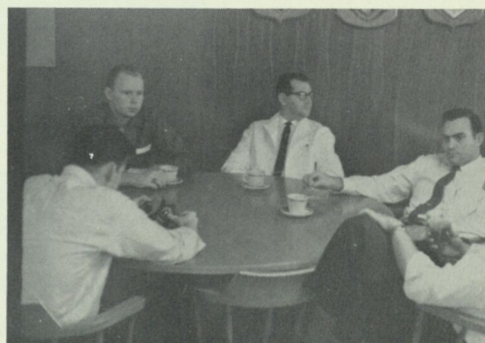

Probably the first instructor that the freshman encounters is Dr. R. O. Bachmann, assistant dean of the School of Pharmacy. More than likely he has already talked to the prospective student before actual enrollment, expounding the virtues of pharmacy school and painting a beautiful picture of the pharmacists' dedication to mankind. Since he is such an easy person to like, every freshman thinks they have found a friend. They begin to wonder why they thought organic was hard. After the first test, the thoroughly confused freshman is convinced that the Dr. Jeckel side comes out only when he makes up tests. This is something you didn't tell us, Dr. B. !

I didn't think we could subscribe to this magazine!!!

If I could just figure a way to make other models ----

W. D. Easterly, Jr., Ph. D.

To introduce the freshmen to many of the actual processes encountered in the profession of pharmacy, we turn to the little man with the big ideas. The little Remington holds many lessons to be learned and the assistance of Dr. Easterly is often necessary to comprehend the vital facts. "Little Red Book" and "Little Green Book" are invaluable aids to the study of this little course. One little thing is certain however, and that is that it doesn't just take a little time to study for these little courses. So it is our little hope that this little man will let us pass these little courses with some little passing grades!

"I S-a-a-a-a-y

here's a fabulous life insurance plan for college men . . . and it's one you can afford today!"

Wise college men are turning to State Life for the start of their life insurance program. This particular plan creates a guaranteed financial backlog at an annual deposit which is surprisingly low. Just look at some of the features available:

- WAIVER OF PREMIUM—In case of disability, The State Life pays your premiums.

- ACCIDENTAL DEATH PAYS DOUBLE—Beneficiary receives twice the face value of your policy if death is accidental.
- CASH VALUES—Policy builds up a savings fund or cash value, available any time for emergencies or business opportunities.
- CASH DIVIDENDS—Profits and savings realized are passed along as dividends . . . can help reduce premiums.
- NO CASH TO START—Your annual premium may be financed through one of Indiana's largest banks, enabling you to start your plan now when rates are lowest and you're assured of qualifying physically.

THE INTERNAL CLOCK

The ability to judge intervals of time is a basic mental function. In order to learn how drugs affect this "internal clock," SK&F scientists use a test in which a monkey must hit a lever after an interval of 20 seconds to obtain food.

When he is under the influence of certain drugs, "time flies" and he misses the pay-off period by hitting the lever too late. Other drugs make "time drag" and he misses the pay-off period by hitting the lever too soon.

Because one of the characteristics of many mental disorders is a distortion of the time sense, observing how drugs affect this primary psychological process may reveal valuable information that will help SK&F scientists in discovering effective treatments for mental illness.
